KING EDWARD

IS SUCCESSFULLY CROWNED WITH IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES

A BRILLIANT PAGEANT

The Military Parade—Heroes of South Africa Were Cheered—Touching Scene as Archbishop Places Crown Upon King's Head

(Associated Press.) London, Aug. 9.—Edward VII, R. I., by grace of God and of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and British dominions beyond the seas, King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India, was today crowned, without hitch or harm, and tonight London is noisily celebrating an event for which the world has awaited, as perhaps, it never awaited any other coronation.

In all respects the celebration was impressive and it was carried out with perfection of detail and lack of accident that has rarely characterized similar displays. That pride of empire, which marked Queen Victoria's jubilee, was lacking, and in its stead there pervaded all classes keen recollections, that only six weeks ago, their king lay in danger of death, and this day produced thankfulness and genuine sympathy for the man, rather than adulation of the king. This feeling was voiced by the Archbishop of Canterbury, when he inserted in one of the coronation prayers the words, "For whose recovery we now give Thee heartfelt thanks."

Yet this did not prevent the public from voicing its appreciation of such military display as the short procession gave them a chance to see. Earl Roberts, commander in chief of the forces, was once more hero of the hour and, next to the king himself, received the heartiest welcome of the assembled crowds. Lord Roberts rode alone and constantly bowed and smiled acknowledgment before his greeting.

Lord Kitchener was not as easily recognized, but he was seen as he rode with Sir Alfred Gaselee and Admiral Sir Edward Hobart Seymour, and was the crowd's next favorite. At various points along the route of the procession, Kitchener received thunderous ovations, which he acknowledged neither by look nor by bow, but as English crowds are used to this treatment from Kitchener, it quite failed to suppress their enthusiasm.

But it was for the king and queen themselves that people really let themselves loose. Throughout the day whenever and wherever their majesties were seen, cheers were loud and long, especially was this so on the return journey of the king and queen to Buckingham palace. Until the booming guns announced that the crowning of King Edward and Queen Alexandra had been achieved, there lingered in thousands of minds a nervous apprehension that even at the last moment some untoward event might once more plunge the nation into consternation. When this was passed, unrestrained jubilation was as much tribute to the king's personal popularity, as it was evidence of relief from the tension of the last two weeks.

So, while the scenes on the streets were robbed of many of those elements that usually accompany a great pageant, they will long be remembered, perhaps, somewhat tenderly, by those who stood on the stands and at windows and on the sidewalks seeking Edward, after he had won almost from the jaws of death, his crown.

In Westminster Abbey the scene was nothing less than marvelous. Nearly seven thousand members of nobility, clergy and gentry had gathered with foreign princes, ambassadors, colonial rulers, Indian potentates, and leaders from the farthest most quarters of the globe, where the Union Jack flies to do honor to the king. Two incidents in the service at the Abbey will live in the memory of all who witnessed them. First of these, which almost developed into dramatic contretemps, centered around the aged Archbishop of Canterbury. From the commencement of the service the archbishop had the greatest difficulty in reading or remembering prayers. The book, from which his almost blind eyes endeavored to read, shook in his hands, and when he came to place the crown upon King Edward's head, his huge frame, towering above the seated king, swayed so violently that the bishop of Winchester had to support him, while the dean of Westminster put a guarding hand under the crown. The tremor which this event caused had scarcely subsided when another exquisitely human touch, varied the proceedings, and the king was forgotten in the father. Instead of merely accepting the homage of the Prince of Wales, King Edward put his arms around the Prince and kissed him and then recalled him and wrung his hand with manliness of parental affection that brought tears to many eyes.

MISS STONE MAKES A RECORD

Draws the Largest Audiences Ever Assembled at Winona Lake

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 9.—Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary, concluded her narrative of her captivity at Winona Lake this afternoon, where she holds the distinction of having attracted the largest crowd ever assembled at Winona. It is estimated there were 9,000 people within range of Miss Stone's voice.

A large area surrounding the auditorium was roped off and arranged with sets, yet fully 1,000 failed to get within earshot.

Miss Stone tells her story in a simple and distinct manner. She did not refer to the current press reports that she was oath-bound not to reveal anything that would lead to the identity of her captors.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS AT SAN FRANCISCO

GREATEST FRATERNAL GATHERING IN HISTORY OF THIS COUNTRY

Tens of Thousands Are Expected—Elaborate Preparations for Their Entertainment

San Francisco, Aug. 9.—This city is today the Mecca of tens of thousands of the most prominent and representative citizens of the United States. From every part of the country, from faraway Maine and Massachusetts, from Florida and Oregon, and from all the commonwealths between, the representatives of the Knights of Pythias are gathering for the national biennial encampment and the meeting of the supreme lodge of their order. Evidence is not lacking in support of the statement that it will be the greatest fraternal gathering in the history of this country, in point of numbers, as well as in splendor.

For more than a year the committee of reception and entertainment, composed of the most prominent and active members of the order in California, has been preparing for the advent of the mighty hosts that will sojourn in this city and suburbs for the next six days, and even thus early the thousands of strangers are willing to admit that its work has been well done. In the matter of decoration, it might be said that even Solomon in all his glory was not dowered as is the business section of San Francisco today. On every hand, over doors and windows, spanning the streets, or floating from tall staffs, are the well known emblems of the order, with a plentiful profusion of stars and stripes. The public buildings, private residences and business blocks alike are gaily decorated, while across many of the principal streets are magnificent arches. Van Ness avenue, the broadest and finest residence street of the city, has been transformed into one grand fair for the entire length of thirty-five blocks on each side of which every county of California has an elaborate and interesting exhibit of its resources.

The advance guard of visitors arrived today and before tomorrow noon a score more of special trains will reach the city. A glance at the registers of the leading hotels shows that there is not a state in the union that is not already represented. A noticeable feature of the gathering is the large number of visitors who are attracted simply as spectators. Railroad officials estimate that by the time the encampment opens on Monday there will be no fewer than 100,000 strangers in the city. For the accommodation of this host private residences have been thrown upon in addition to the hotels and private boarding houses. Five thousand bunks also have been placed in the Mechanics' pavilion, while the members of the uniform rank are to be accommodated in tents furnished by the war department.

IMITATORS OF HARRY TRACY

BITES THE DUST NEAR SAN JOSE, CALIFORNIA

Commits a Series of Daring Highway Robberies But are Quickly Over-taken by Posse

(Associated Press.)

San Jose, Cal., Aug. 9.—A series of daring highway robberies, which resulted in the death of the robbers, and wounding a citizen, occurred on Monterey road late today. Two young men held up an old lady, took her horse and buggy, and drove to Coyote, where they purchased a revolver at Holp's store and immediately proceeded to hold up the proprietor and several bystanders. They which place they met W. W. McKee, and ordered him to hold up his hands. McKee lashed his horse and escaped.

The robbers continued southward and were just entering Steven's store when a posse of six armed men came upon them. The robbers abandoned their rig and started across a field. One of them was shot through the stomach and seeing escape was impossible, blew out his brains with a revolver. The other threw up his hands and surrendered.

PHELPS-DODGE SUES AGENTS

MILLER & CROWE ARE DEFENDANTS IN $21,000 CASE

Allegations That Excessive Amounts were Charged as Commission—Other Irregularities in Buying Right of Way

Phelps, Dodge & Co. today filed two suits, one against Miller & Crowe, as a firm, and one against Mark Miller individually. These suits grow out of transactions in purchasing the right of way for the Bisbee railroad through the city.

The suits were filed by Phelps, Dodge & Co. in the district court. One is against Mark Miller for $2,115.

It is alleged in the complaint that in 1901 and 1902 M. W. Wambaugh as their agent, bought of Charles N. Basset, $2,000 worth of real estate; from Mrs. A. M. Loomis, $22,500 worth; Josephine B. Crosby and Yndita Z. Crosby $16,000 worth, and from M. C. Edwards, administrator, $23,000 worth, all in the city of El Paso.

It is further stated that Mark Miller was in no wise connected with plaintiffs; that he collected the sum of $2,115 from said Wambaugh as commissions and that said amount was collected without consideration.

The other suit is against Mark Miller and H. G. Crowe. It is alleged that Miller & Crowe as the agents of plaintiff purchased certain real estate in El Paso city and the same was conveyed to Charles W. Parsons and other real estate was conveyed to the El Paso Terminal railway company.

Plaintiffs sue for $21,674 which they claim to be due them by defendants growing out of these transactions.

The plaintiffs allege that said sum was used by the defendants to purchase certain real estate described in the complaint, and that said real estate is held in trust for plaintiffs and the court is asked to declare such trust.

These cases involve the Bisbee road right of way through the city of El Paso.—El Paso Herald.

WEDS TELEPHONE GIRL

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Miss Mary Bogardus is a Poughkeepsie telephone girl, who is soon to wed Albert Edward Tower, the millionaire proprietor of the Poughkeepsie iron works.

The acquaintance of Miss Bogardus and Mr. Tower began when the manufacturer's telephone became one of those which Miss Bogardus answered in her work. Mr. Tower was charmed by her voice, sought an introduction and proposed marriage. The engagement was to have been kept a secret owing to the recent death of Mrs. Tower, but now that it is out the preparations for the wedding are in progress.

If the wedding takes place early in the fall which is the arrangement at present, it will occur little more than six months after the wife of Mr. Tower fatally shot her 14-year-old son and killed herself in the palatial Tower home in Poughkeepsie.

ACCIDENT AT SPRAY CAGE FALLS 400 FEET

KING BOLT BROKE ON THE LARGE CAGE

Accident Happened Between the Four and Five Hundred Levels—No One Injured

Yesterday morning the Spray shaft, was the scene of an accident, and by a very narrow margin, a tool boy named Bowman, escaped being dashed to death at the bottom of the shaft.

The three decker cage was being hoisted to the surface from the seven hundred level, when at a point between the 400 and 500 levels, the king bolt broke, and the safety chains failing to hold the load, the cage dropped a distance of three hundred feet to the bottom.

The cage started from the seven hundred level empty, with the exception of the tool boy Bowman, who signaled to stop at the sixth. At this point he alighted, pushing his tool car ahead. Three loaded cars were put on the cage here and the signal given to hoist. When it had reached the point mentioned the accident happened.

Jake Wright was on duty as engineer. He had a cage going down the other compartment when the accident happened, and but for his prompt action another accident might have been recorded.

The wrecked cage is in the bottom of the shaft and a new cable must be procured before it can be extricated.

"STEEPLE JACK" MEETS DEATH

Daniel Barry Falls Ninety-eight Feet and is Killed

(Associated Press.)

Philadelphia, Aug. 9.—Philadelphia's Steeple Jack, Daniel Barry, fell ninety-eight feet while working in the city hall tower today and was instantly killed. He had been a rigger, employed in the city hall for sixteen years. He had a reputation for cool daring, combined with great muscular power and catlike agility. Whenever electric lights were rigged around the brim of the statue of William Penn, which caps the city hall tower, 540 feet above the pavement, Barry was intrusted with the undertaking, and occasionally, in the pride of his strength and agility, he would lower himself over the edge of the hat and hang in midair by his hands.

QUIEN SABE CLUB VISIT SALT LAKE

START WAS MADE OVER THE SANTA FE FROM EL PASO

Contingent Composed of Arizona, New Mexico and Texas Delegates—"Quien Sabe Club."

(El Paso Herald.)

The Elks' special pullman that leaves here tonight will be the nucleus of one of the finest trains to reach Salt Lake during the convention. It leaves El Paso with a delegation from this city and upon arriving at Albuquerque two more Pullmans and a baggage car will be added. These three cars will contain the famous "Quien Sabe" club, and at Denver the special Elks' train will be made up.

This train is to consist of fourteen Pullmans and two baggage cars, vestibuled throughout, and will carry only the Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and El Paso, Tex., delegations. From Denver the train will run over the U. P. to Salt Lake. It is said the boys will carry few, if any, trunks and the baggage cars are only needed for transportation of "cases"—kind of cases not specified.

It is now settled that about twenty-five will occupy the sleeper from this point, and the Santa Fe, recognizing the necessity of insuring the comfort of so distinguished a party, has deputized Jimmie Morrison, himself an Elk, to go with the party and see to its comfort while in transit.

What Denver News Says

The Denver News has the following to say about the "Quien Sabe" club:

"The 'Quien Sabe' marching club of the southwest will arrive in Denver at 3:15 p. m., August 9, and will give a parade immediately after their arrival. The members of the club belong to the El Paso herd of Elks and represent Texas, Arizona and New Mexico. They will be in the city one day and will leave for Salt Lake on the Elks' official train on the Union Pacific at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The club is designed to advertise the southwest and its members say 'we are typical of our country, hot and dry.'"

"Among the prominent Elks in the party will be J. H. Adams, exalted ruler of El Paso, No. 187; George Ogden, treasurer of the executive committee; Charlie Nesbitt, of the committee; Harry Chapman, another member of the committee, and L. T. Bryant, chairman of the committee and organizer of the club.

"The Quien Sabes are coming 100 strong, clad in pink 'charro' suits of finest Elk skin, trimmed in braid of gold and silver. No caballero in Manana land ever wore richer costume than one of these. El Capitán of the club will wear an outfit which cost $1,000 and at the convention will ride in a saddle of Mexican workmanship of almost solid silver, which was obtained at a cost of $2,000. In their special cars the Elks will have four 'barrels' of Mexican Elks' milk and eight 'barrels' of Mexican Elks' tea, which will be dispensed to the thirsty Elks along the route, especially Denver and Colorado Springs. The watering trough will be out at every stop. At their headquarters in Salt Lake they will serve to visitors tequila punch, made in a Mexican 'cazuela' and stirred with the original prayer stick which Montezuma carried with him on the journey from Pecos Pueblo in northern New Mexico to the now capital city of the republic. This seductive potion will be handed around in the mugs of Mexican make. Four bales of chili pepper, and all kinds of committants will be carried along and on arriving their 'mozo' will make great quantities of chili to serve to visitors. Tortillas and abacate salads will also be served with the lunches."

"The El Paso Elks will not advertise their town as hot and dry, because it is not. El Paso has had more than enough rain and the weather here is cool enough for people to sleep under cover at night. To prevent any mistake the local Elks should inscribe on their banner: 'El Paso, the greatest place on earth, is not hot and dry.' This city does not want to get mixed up with Albuquerque's 'hot and dry' legend."

JUMPS FROM A BALLOON

(Associated Press.)

Ashley, Mich., Aug. 9.—As a balloon bearing Jewett Douglass of this village, ascended at Pompeii, six miles west of here, Saturday the crowd shouted: "Fire, the balloon is on fire." The balloon was a hot air apparatus and had ignited from a spark in side. Douglass made a frantic effort to save himself. When high in the air he cut loose his parachute and jumped. The distance was too short to permit the parachute to open properly and the aeronaut was badly injured.
